

HOROLOGICAL ACADEMY OF INDEPENDENT CREATORS

THE AHCI AT JEWELUXE 2018

This is the second time when AHCI takes part in Jeweluxe, the renowned and prestigious exhibition in Singapore, as well as at many other watch fairs all around the world. This gives collectors, connoisseurs of authentic horology and the international press an opportunity to get in contact with the real watchmakers, who personally present their innovations and high-quality masterpieces.

Our goal is to perpetuate the heritage of horological art and also to promote this exceptional avocation where the young, talented watchmakers are granted a possibility to present and exhibit their creations by participating at the different watch fairs together with the members of the AHCI.

We are happy to announce that 7 of our exceptional watch and clockmakers will expose their chef-d'oeuvres at the AHCI independent clock & watch makers stand along with the 4 candidates.

This year the members of AHCI already took part in more than three fairs as representatives of the Academy and also at many small private events and exhibitions as single and independent creators. The latest models of high horology created by our members and candidates were on display at the Baselworld, in Luxembourg, soon after, at the China Watch and Clock Fair in Shenzhen and in Beijing. Seven of our prominent watchmakers were invited to present their creations at the Jeweluxe Singapore exhibition.

2017 was marked by the great victory of Kari Voutilainen at the Grand Prix D'Horlogerie De Genève. He was awarded the "Aiguille d'Or" ("Golden Hand") in the "Artistic Crafts Watch Prize" category. We are also very happy to report that six of our members and candidates put up their watches for sale at the charity auction "Only Watch" held in Genève. Many of them were sold at prices higher than previously estimated.

This year, six members and candidates of the Academy entered the finals of the prestigious The Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG).

Now our horological academy counts 31 active members, 7 candidates and 8 honorary members from 15 different countries.

You can meet our members, candidates and applicants at the AHCI booth and get acquainted with their timepieces.
